Centennial Concert Attracts Close to 2000 Persons

A combination of "Can-Can Dancers", "A-Go-Go Dancers", interspersed with tumbling acts, a fashion show, dances and choir selections had everything that would touch the fancy of the most particular concert goer.

Very close to 2,000 persons attended the two sessions of Coleman Centennial Concert held in the Horace Allen school auditorium on May 11th, and comments noted indicated that the event would have outshone a Hollywood premiere.

To start off the series of numbers a 125-voice school chorus sang several numbers, after which a Coleman school tumbling team did everything that is in the book of line gymnastics.

A host of young school Dutch dancers and a group of Coleman Girl Forest Guards presented dances and a skit before a school polka and Serbian dance group presented their much-applauded numbers.

Mrs. Anna Jones of the Coleman Order of the Royal Purple, then introduced and gave the commentary on an extremely colorful fashion show that featured exquisite old-time ladies' costumes modelled by mothers and daughters of the Royal Purple.

The costumes drew many sighs of appreciation as memories of many in the hall wandered back to other days.

The Ladies of the Royal Purple then presented a series of skits that featured dances of the different eras from the 1920's to the present day. Included in the dances were the applaud-drawing Charleston, the Can-Can and the Twist.

The Can-Can dance was featured in a Klondike type bar-room with the bar-room girls doing the dances under the direction of the Madame. The very original costumes drew hearty applause from the record crowds that were on hand.

The directors, participants and organizers of the show were given a standing ovation by the large attendance, who voted the show the best ever held in Southern Alberta.

To conclude the Coleman Spectacular, all of the ladies who had donned costumes of all founders and inhabitants of Canada, paraded through the auditorium to give all a chance to view closely the exquisite costumes that were worn for the gala performance.

Hose Coupling On July 1st

Chief of the Coleman Volunteer Fire Brigade, Henry Zak, announced this week that the annual Hose Coupling Competitions will be held in Coleman on July 1st.

Chief Zak anticipates that from 15 to 20 teams from all over Southern Alberta, British Columbia and the States will again be participating in the day-long events.

The competitions will feature two events and demonstrations will again be held for the general public.

The events will start off with a parade and will conclude with a banquet and dance.

Caravan Staff Presented With Gifts

Mayor Mrs. C. E. R. Jepson of Bellevue presented Alex Jamieson of the Centennial Caravan, with a framed picture of the Crows Nest Pass.

The presentation made by Mayor Jepson, was on behalf of the Crows Nest Pass towns, which provided 41 of the framed photos for all the members of the Caravan staff.

Mayor John Kerr of Frank, acting as spokesman of the welcoming committee, presented the Caravan members with a duplicate copy of the old Frank newspaper printed in 1903.

Coleman Fish and Game Meeting Well Attended

Coleman Fish and Game Association at its meeting last week learned that Ron Knight of Lethbridge, Department of Water Resources engineer, has approached R. E. Bailey, director of Water Resources Department in Edmonton, requesting permission to have the waters of Glacier Creek diverted into Island Lake.

When permission is obtained the Association will attempt to have the Department of Highways or the Fisheries Branch do this work with aid from the members of the Fish and Game Club. The waters of the stream were diverted into Crows Nest Lake several years ago when the road was changed and a causeway built through Island Lake. Diverting the water back into Island Lake would ensure of steady good supply of fresh water running into the lake.

The Association will attempt to revive interest in the Hunter Training Program and if possible will get a number of local members to take the instructors' course so that other members can take the course under local instructors.

May 14th was the date set for a "Work Bee" to be held at the Association's new dam site project north-west of Coleman.

Members and persons wishing to take part in this worthy project are asked to be at Rudy's Texaco garage at 9 a.m. or 10:30 a.m. for transportation.

Anyone having power saws and axes are asked to bring them along. Coffee and doughnuts will be served.

Fish competition entry forms are being prepared and will be distributed to various locations for the members who wish to weigh in and enter fish in the events sponsored by the club.

A fund raising committee was appointed and is headed by Orazio Celli.

The Association approved the donation of $10 to the Crows Nest Pass Rifle Club, which is a newly-organized group of sportsmen.

Approval was also given by the membership to continue membership in the Canadian Wildlife Federation at a cost of $10.

Town Secretary R.W. Jensen Resigns

Policing in the town of Coleman does not appear satisfactory to several townspeople and some councillors, as reports of much speeding were brought to light at last meeting of the council.

A local resident reported that on week-ends some young people were travelling at terrific rates of speed at the east end of town on Highway No. 3.

In making his report the citizen stated he was not condemning the RCMP police, who are policing the town, as he felt they are to be respected - but he added policing now is not what it used to be when the former Police Chief Corson was here. A member of council supported the citizen's complaint by stating that much speeding was going on in West Coleman.

Secretary-Treasurer Dick Jensen submitted a plan to council, showing the proposed street and house numbering program that is to be undertaken.

Council received word from the Forestry Department, suggesting that the town check bridges and water channels of creeks passing in town to be sure they are clear of debris as great amounts of water are expected this spring.

The town foreman was advised to check this matter and also check the supply of and order, sandbags if they are necessary.

President of the Lions Club, Councillor Fred MacLeod, advised council that the club was going to build a cement wall on the west side of the tennis courts to act as a retaining wall.

Council was pleased to learn that the Provincial Government Department of Highways will sponsor a Street Assistance Development program starting in 1967.

Grants will total one million dollars per year for five years. Basic grant for a village is $8,000 plus a $12 per capita grant. Coleman's total grant will amount to $27,000 which council will practically hard-surface all streets.

The resignation of Secretary-treasurer R. W. Jensen was accepted with regret. Mr. Jensen plans on going into farming in the Peace River Country. Applications for the position of secretary-treasurer will be accepted by the council until May 31.

Council set the millrate at 66 mills which represents an increase of six mills over last year. The rate is broken down as follows: Municipal purposes, 29 mills; School foundation program, 23.1 mills; Local school requisition 8.8 mills; Hospital Act, 3.3 mills, and Chinook Health Unit, 1.8 mills.

Senior Prom Successful Affair

Well over 200 persons attended the Senior Prom, held in the Elks hall May 5th, that got underway with a banquet served by the ladies of the Royal Purple.

Chairman of the event was Brian Zak, who very ably kept the evening rolling at a non-tiring pace. Lee Kubica was called upon to say Grace, after which the toast to Her Majesty was proposed by Walter Binda, followed by the toast to the Staff, given by Miss Noreen Woods. School Principal Horace Allen responded and gave an inspiring talk to the students.

The toast to the School Board, given by Miss Arlene Krywolt, was responded to by Board Chairman John Salus, after which a toast to the Parents, ably given by Edward Cornett, was responded to by Melvin Cornett.

Miss Cornett, a French-Canadian, class valedictorian, gave a very impressive talk, after which Laurence G. Hove of the Lethbridge Junior College, spoke on computers and mathematics in today's world and the future. A response followed by George Cembrowski, and a vote of thanks to the OORP proposed by Mark Ondrus, completed the banquet event.

Centennial Parade Well Attended

Pass towns turned out in full force to welcome the Confederation Caravan during its two-day stay in Blairmore and Coleman. Blairmore, a town of 1960, had 3834 visitors view the display, while Coleman with a population of 1400, had 4,000.

More than 1,000 persons crowded the school auditorium for two concerts held in conjunction with the caravan tour. The smorgasbord fed 700. A carnival and teenage dance were held in conjunction with the Centennial celebrations.

Despite the snowy weather on Thursday morning, streets were lined with hundreds of persons to welcome the caravan to town. Heading the parade that preceded the caravan, were riders from the Crows Nest Pass Riding Club, vintage cars and old-timers, and decorated bikes and costumed children.

A pancake breakfast was held at the curling arena, attended by numerous persons.

Cord of Thanks

A special thank you to the citizens and organizations of Coleman for their tremendous response in supporting me to make the smorgasbord a success, because without their help it would have been impossible. I'm sorry that more could not have been accommodated and some had to go away disappointed. I apologize for any errors and mistakes, but I'm proud of our Community for a job well done.

Thank you.
Mitzi Moore,
Chairman of the Smorgasbord

OF MANY THINGS (By Ambrose Hills)

Chickens On Greenhorn Farm

When I started as a greenhorn farmer, I tried to give all our animals and pets as much freedom of action as possible; but today, I must confess, I have our chickens lodged in cages from which the eggs roll down on slanted plastic with impersonal precision, factory style. It's not the happiest life in the world for those chickens, I suppose, but it is highly convenient for me and my family.

Periodically I try to tell myself that it is best for the chickens, too. Keeps them out of trouble. Always there is food and water for them, and they are protected from predators. They lay whiter, cleaner eggs and they don't have to scratch for a living.

I can't get away with this rationalizing for very long, though. Those chickens would be better off out in the sun, chasing insects and scratching for grain. The caging process is for my own convenience and welfare, not theirs. It is the old story. Dictators and dictatorial politicians have tried, always, to justify regimentation on the grounds that they do it for the good of the people. I'll go down to the barn and try that line on the chickens. I suspect there'll be some bitterness in their cackling.

Years of living as a city slicker spoiled us. We like eggs with delicate yolks and cannot eat a dark, strong egg. Also, we are used to walking on clean pavement, and chickens refuse to co-operate. So, with a sketch from a farm magazine, I set out for the wire factory in Mission City.

An employee met me at the door of this huge factory and asked me what I wanted. "I'm going into chickens," I said, "and I've drawn up a sketch of the type of cage I want."

"Custom built?" he asked.

"I want everything completely automatic," I said.

"I'd better get the boss. Please wait here."

He jumped into an automobile and took off. Presently he returned with the factory owner and manager. I was in my farm duds, and a bit rattled by this red-carpet attention I was getting. So I came clean. "Look here," I said, "there's been a misunderstanding. — I'm only getting half a dozen chickens to keep the family in eggs, that's all."

You could almost hear the employee's jaw, it fell so far so fast. But Mr. Butler himself, let out a hearty roar of laughter and grabbed me by the hand. He gave me a ten-dollar tour of his fabulous factory, made a new pattern from my sketch, and his own son made me up an exceptional fine set of cages, with automatic watering and a trough for the feed. He used a special plastic wire, so the eggs are clean and undamaged. Later I met his wife, and we were soon comparing notes on greenhorn farming in the valley.

Later that day, I visited a farm where they had really gone into the chicken business, and I could understand the red-carpet treatment. Here, a $50,000 investment is considered a pretty small ranch. The set-up I looked at must have taken at least $100,000 to establish. But by gosh, the cages weren't as good as those right here on Greenhorn Farm.

New Long Distance Telephone Rates

Long distance telephone calls between Canada and Alaska will cost approximately 20 per cent less with the establishment May 7th of new station-to-station toll rates.

The new rate structure, negotiated between the Alaska Communication System, Canadian National Telecommunications and the Trans-Canada Telephone System also provides for an increase in person-to-person call rates.

Previously, the schedule called for only a Day (full) rate and a Night (reduced) rate.

Charges for a station-to-station, three minute day call from Edmonton to Fairbanks will total $6.50 as compared to $8.25 under the schedule. At the same time a person-to-person call between the two points will cost $9.50, an increase of $1.25. The largest reduction of $3.50 applies to calls from Eastern Canada to remote Alaska areas.

The new rate structure was negotiated by Alberta Government Telephones on behalf of the Trans-Canada Telephone System. Canada-Alaska calls do not yet have Direct Distance Dialing service. However, calls are dialed direct to Anchorage by the originating operator.

Centennial Film Showing At Roxy

"West to the Mountains", a half hour film produced for the Government of Alberta to commemorate Canada's Centennial Year, and to honor the province's pioneers, will premiere at Innisfail, the location where Anthony Henday held his first rendezvous with the Blackfeet.

Following the premiere, 35 millimetre wide-screen prints of the film in Eastmancolor will be made available free of charge to all theatres in the province. In addition, throughout the month of April 16 millimetre color prints will be supplied without charge to groups interested in showing the picture in communities where there is no theatre with 35 millimetre equipment. After the first month, the 16 millimetre version will be available to all interested groups.

The title "West to the Mountains" is derived from the advice given to pioneer homesteaders, heading across the prairies: "Go West until you see the mountains and settle there". The film's story is that of Alberta, from the days before the white man to the present and beyond. Brought to life on the screen are the people who suffered hardship and danger to build a foundation for today's Alberta, the fur-trader, the missionary, the gold-seeker, the North-West Mounted Police, the pioneer families and homesteaders.

The film also shows the results of their efforts with a look at the present progress of the province and even a glimpse into the future. Its scope covers the length and breadth of Alberta, from the Peace River to the southern prairies, from the badlands to the mountains.

All parts in the film are played by Albertans, with the exception of narrator and balladeer Burl Ives, and his son Alex. Mr. Ives was chosen for the role because of his international reputation as a storyteller and folk-artist.

This film will be shown at the Roxy Theatre, Coleman, on May 20 and 22 and at the Orpheum Theatre, Blairmore on May 24, 25 and 26.

Nominations Invited For Calgary Power Jr. Citizen of Year

Albertans are reminded to send in their nominations now for Calgary Power's Junior Citizen of the Year Awards.

The Junior Citizen of the Year Program was inaugurated in 1962 as a public service by Alberta's independent electrical utility companies. Its aim is to make sure that enterprising young Albertans get the recognition they deserve.

Our readers may ask - what makes a Junior Citizen? Some have performed acts of heroism, frequently at the risk of their own lives. Others have excelled in acts of quiet courage such as overcoming physical handicaps or assuming responsibility far beyond their years. Any act qualifies that makes a young person stand out in the eyes of his or her fellow citizens. The winners receive framed certificates and Government Savings Bonds at the annual Alberta Weekly Newspaper Association convention, held in the fall.

Four of the Junior Citizens of the Year from Calgary Power's service area have won added acclaim because of their heroic actions.

A 1962 winner, Judith Walters of the Feiger Colony of Hutterite Brethren of Lethbridge, was cited in an article by W. O. Mitchell in a national Canadian magazine for her endeavors towards integration of the Hutterite children in our public school system.

Lynda Dann of Vulcan, a 1964 winner, won her award for rescuing a 10-year-old friend from drowning. Lynda was presented with the Mountbatten Medal by Admiral of the Fleet, the Earl of Mountbatten of Burma, when he visited Canada recently. Lynda's citation calls it "the most meritorious rescue of the year".

Two 1965 winners have also received accolades for their contributions to their communities and families. Theresa Becher of Bashaw won her citizenship award for unselfish giving of her vocal talents to her community. In 1966 she won two firsts and a second at the Edmonton Musical Festival. She also won a $50 scholarship from an Edmonton radio station, and an additional $90 scholarship to the Banff School of Fine Arts.

Doris Pollard of Chip Lake won a Calgary Power Special Award when she rescued her brothers and sisters from their burning home. She was presented with an award by Lt. Governor Grant MacEwan on behalf of the Royal Humane Society. Doris performed this heroic rescue when she was just four years old.

Nominations are now being accepted for this year's Alberta Junior Citizen of the Year Awards. Readers who know of deserving young Albertans from 6 to 16 years of age are invited to contact the editor of this newspaper.

National Museum Produces Annual Review Booklet

A thirty-two page illustrated booklet describing its activities has just been released by the National Museum.

Based on the fiscal year 1965-66, it describes the major research projects and illustrates some of the major acquisitions in the Human History and Natural History Museums with a foreword by the Hon. Judy LaMarsh, Secretary of State.

Entitled National Museum of Canada 1966, the booklet's cover is imprinted with a free-hand drawing illustrating Museum artifacts. Cleverly designed by Miss Joan Frick a free-lance artist of Ottawa, Canada, the booklet is planned to inform the public of Museum activities and to illustrate some of the more unusual artifacts contained in the Museum's collections.

Printed in French and English, it lists the Museum's scientific publications released during the year and is a most interesting and factual account of the Museum's work.

Copies may be obtained by writing to Mr. Keith A. Stead, Chief, Information and Education Division, National Museum of Canada, Ottawa, Canada.

"Hey, Friend, Say Friend" has been chosen as the official Expo 67 theme song. Composer Stephane Venne of Montreal was among 220 song writers from 35 countries who submitted entries.

A message from your Social Credit Candidate to the people of Pincher Creke-Crowsnest Constituency

CHARLES DRAIN

At a time when the public is kept informed of government and civic affairs through the news media, it seems incredible that there still exists an appalling lack of knowledge concerning issues in our constituency. Granted that such misinformation is advertised for political reasons by opposing candidates. But, in the interests of good citizenship, the people of Crows Nest Pass - Pincher Creek should be told the truth concerning these issues:

HOMES FOR SENIOR CITIZENS-

Old age homes are built by the Provincial Government. They are then operated by a board composed of a member from each municipal governing body. Any excess in costs other than revenue received from the tenants thereof must be borne by the local taxpayer. The Local Board have given thought to establishing another home in the Crows Nest Pass. In order to justify this a feasibility study was undertaken by local volunteers and the sum total of potential applicants available if a home is built in the Pass, numbered fourteen persons. Therefore, if another home is built it would mean two homes running at a loss of half capacity and would entail an additional charge to all taxpayers of possibly five mills supplementary on their property taxes. It is a known fact that due to efficient management, the Crest View Lodge at Pincher Creek has operated on a self-liquidating basis without any charge to the taxpayer. Our Senior Citizens have excellent care in this home. If the Board decides that another home should be built, it is their prerogative to apply to the Government and the Government will then comply.

CROWS NEST PASS HOSPITAL-

The design of this hospital was accepted and built according to specifications as put out by the local Hospital Board. Although they were dedicated to their task they were not experienced in the line of hospitals. The Government has now allotted $75,000 through my representations and the Hospital Board, for the upgrading of this hospital and further committed themselves that a new hospital will be built in this area in the early 1970's.

INDUSTRIAL ASSISTANCE-

The Social Credit Government will give assistance in any manner possible to help people help themselves.

At a Cabinet sitting a week ago the go-ahead was given to an immediate study of urban renewal needs and industrial development in the Crows Nest Pass and of implementing a program to meet these needs as soon as appropriate plans and studies have been completed.

VOCATIONAL TRAINING-

This required a student base of five thousand students and a reasonable economic cost per student. My understanding is that provision will be made in the new High School for Business Training and Vocational Training to a maximum that is practical.

ROADS-

The Councils of the towns and villages of the Crows Nest Pass - Pincher Creek Constituency have been pleased to learn that the Social Credit Government through its Department of Highways, is sponsoring a street assistance development program starting in 1967. Grants will total one million dollars per year for five years. Basic grant for towns and villages is $9,000 plus a $12 per capita grant. Coleman's total grant will amount to $27,000 - an amount of $29,000 for Blairmore and a proportionate amount for Bellevue.

THE TAR SANDS-

The truth of the Tar Sands is that they are leased, not sold to Great Canadian Oil Sands. This company has invested in the neighborhood of Two Hundred and Thirty Million Dollars ($230,000,000) in this project on the basis of a production of forty-five thousand barrels of oil a day. As yet this is an unproven process. Any government which would make free with the people's money on an experimental basis or with a production that is definitely costly would be highly irresponsible.

Oil markets and oil prices are highly competitive because oil is a surplus commodity. We of Alberta sell oil to the U. S. who are self-contained in oil. I suggest to the NDP Party that the Oil Companies of the world would not beat a pathway to Alberta to buy oil from a Provincial Produced Development to put their own production out of business. The Alberta Government could not force local Oil Companies to buy their product unless they choose to expropriate the retail outlets in Alberta. This would hardly develop a volume even if this would be done sufficient to amortize an investment of this size.

The economics of the oil business is such that the type of oil tankers we have today the flow of Transmission Mountain Oil pipeline can be reversed and oil delivered to Calgary on a competitive basis.

At the present time we are getting 8 per cent to 16 per cent royalty of conventional oil off the top without spending any of the people's money, and I suggest to the NDP Party that they learn the rudiments of economics before they consider going into business.

As a permanent resident of this Constituency, where I have made my living and brought up my children, I know the needs of the people. My association with coal-mining, lumbering and the oil industry is not merely as a sideline, but in actual experience of labor and management in all areas. The problems of ranching and farming are first-hand knowledge.

The Social Credit Government of Alberta strives for economic equity, with freedom!

We share a common concern for the interests of all residents in the Crows Nest Pass - Pincher Creek Constituency.

M.L.A. Welcomes The Caravan

In spite of inclement weather, approximately 200 people of the Coleman area attended the opening of the Centennial Caravan on Thursday.

Garth Turcott, NDP MLA for Pincher Creek - Crows Nest in the last Legislature, presented a short address in which he urged people to enjoy the "excitement of the nation's Birthday party."

"But while we are enjoying ourselves," he said, "let us give thought to the early pioneers who came here and saw towns and cities on empty prairies and remote mountain valleys."

"Our first century was a time for building, finding our nationhood. The second century is a time for leadership among the truly great nations of the world," he said.

Letter to the Editor

Edmonton, Alberta,
May 10, 1967.

The Editor,
The Coleman Journal,
Coleman, Alberta.

Dear Sir:

We don't like to think about mental illness, or about the mentally ill, do we?

That's why we send them away to those large, distant hospitals we all complain about, out of sight, and out of mind.

That's why we use such expressions as "He had to be put away," or "We're going to have to put him away."

The 75,000 Canadian men, women and children being treated today for mental illnesses are occupying more than half of all the hospital beds in Canada. Many of them shouldn't be there at all.

Since the dawn of recorded history, the mentally ill have been getting a raw deal. We have a high standard of diagnostic and treatment service for the physically-ill, but not for the mentally ill.

We, the people, are responsible. When governments are made aware that we care, they will upgrade treatment services.

YOU can express your concern by writing a Letter to your M.L.A. (or candidate) or to your M.P., saying that you DO care, and that you want the mentally ill to have "the same excellence of service that is now provided for the physically ill."

A country that can spend $6 million a year on military bands can surely spend more than one million a year for mental illness research. More research and more education could help to keep thousands of people out of a mental hospital.

One home in four will know the tragedy of mental illness. It could be yours. Speak up, now, for the mentally ill.

Very truly yours,
C. ROBERT DICKEY,
Provincial Executive Director,
The Canadian Mental Health Association.

Dear Mr. Holstead:

Please find enclosed the money order for The Journal. Sorry I am late with it, but our house has been full of sickness with one or the other and I have just come out of the hospital, but am on the road to recovery.

Ernest is up in Edmonton having a new top put on his artificial leg. Hoping every one is fine. Say hello to all our friends.

Yours truly,
Mrs. Kennedy.

Forestry Roads Are Impassable

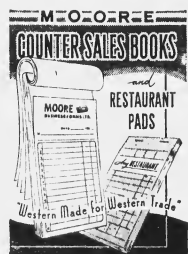

Due to the recent heavy snow-falls throughout the entire Crows Nest Forest, all Forestry roads are impassable.

During the snow-clearing process, roads will be excessively soft and saturated with moisture and the travelling public is requested to refrain from using Forestry roads until some measure of stability to the grade takes place.

From the depth of snow existing at the present time, it is not expected that travel can be recommended prior to May 15.

In the event that damage to the road results, we will have no other recourse but to close all roads by Ministerial Order. Your complete co-operation is requested to ensure that roads remain in good condition during the summer months.

The aquarium at Expo 67 will be equipped with an animal hospital for the treatment of its star performers. These include 12 dolphins who will put on 10 shows daily.

Change In Hunting Regulations

Hon. Henry A. Ruste, Alberta's Minister of Lands and Forests, today announced changes which are proposed in hunting regulations for the 1967 fall season.

Only one change is proposed in resident hunting licence. It is recommended that residents be required to hold a $7.50 Grizzly Bear licence to hunt these animals. The "grizzlies" are not plentiful in Alberta.

Increased fees are proposed for non-resident big game hunters. It is proposed that the non-resident alien fee be increased from $100.00 to $150.00 and the non-resident Canadian fee to $75.00 from $50.00. An increase in the non-resident Canadian bird game licence from $2.50 to $5.00 is also proposed for this fall, but the non-resident alien bird game licence will remain unchanged at $25.00 for this season.

Offsetting the proposed increases in non-resident fees is a proposed non-resident big game licence for special areas. The new licence will allow both alien and Canadian hunters to take a moose and two Black Bears on a single $25.00 licence.

It is recommended that there be no season on Grizzly Bears for non-residents this fall, and that non-residents not be permitted to hunt Mountain Sheep in November, as they did in 1966. The resident hunter will have similar sheep hunting privileges as in November, 1966, and the resident Grizzly Bear season will be unchanged.

Mr. Ruste also announced that provincial Ruffed Grouse, Sharp-tail Grouse and Hungarian Partridge populations have increased, and hunting prospects will be good for these species. Increased daily bag limits on ducks will be requested of the Federal Government, as waterfowl populations in Alberta have increased sharply in response to increased quality and quantity of wetland habitat.

Seasons and bag limits will remain similar to those in 1966.

However, with increased moose and upland game bird populations, wildlife biologists are predicting a bumper crop of big game and game birds, which are still lightly harvested in many areas. Prospects for pheasant hunting appear to be slightly improved for 1967, Mr. Ruste stated.

The Minister also announced that the province's 125 wildlife management units will be consolidated into 20 zones. Within each there will be a single opening and closing date for any particular species. Mr. Ruste stated that this will greatly simplify the hunting regulations and reduce confusion for hunters and guides.

A WEEKLY LOOK AT EXPO '67

(By Tracy S. Ludington)

Many of the letters to this column ask questions about the Soviet Pavilion at Expo, and what exhibits will be found there.

The list of exhibits, of course, is too long to include in any column of this nature — but I can tell you that there will be Soviet entertainers performing all throughout the six months of Expo, and a restaurant featuring the finest of Russian foods, and there will be Soviet souvenirs for sale — and a distinctive feature of the Soviet approach to Expo is the use of the Pavilion for meetings and press conferences.

Entertainers will include the Bolshoi Ballet, the Piatinsky folk chorus, Georgian dance ensembles and Ukrainian folk choir, a Soviet Army ensemble and the Moiseyev dancers.

And in a theatre seating 600 the visitor will have the opportunity to see top Soviet documentary and feature films and there will be a daily fashion show of Russian-designed, Russian-manufactured clothes, on Russian models.

The Russian restaurant will seat 1100 and if you like the food, you will be able to buy some to take home. Beverages will include vodka and Georgian wines.

Soviet trade officials hope to expand their trade ties during Expo and they'll have contracts on hand ready for signing, for the Soviet is as aware today as any other nation of the importance of foreign exchange.

At the cinema, promotional films will be tied in with the trade pitch. And things will go the other way too — many Soviet tourists will be going to Montreal, scientist specialists in many fields.

At Expo they will meet their counterparts from other nations, deliver lectures and report on the state of the Soviet Union.

August 15, 17, and 19 will be the big celebration days at the Soviet Pavilion, where the Russians will feature gala festivals. (Address correspondence to Tracy S. Ludington, Expo 67, at 7005 Kidare Road, Montreal 29).

Hello, ladies, here I am back in the office, after an enjoyable week in Banff. We had a course in leadership techniques which was most interesting, and, of course, the surroundings added considerably to our enjoyment.

I've had several requests for information on protective finishes for resilient floors (vinyl, asphalt, rubber, linoleum and vinyl-asbestos) so I thought I'd pass along to you what the Good Housekeeping Institute has to say on this subject.

"Use the temporary rather than 'permanent' coatings and waxes. They protect floors from dirt, scratches and heel marks and give them a higher gloss. The liquid water-base waxes work best of all. These can be divided into three categories: the self-polishing, the clean-and-wax products and the buffable. The self-polishing are easy to apply, dry to the tough protective film and require little or no buffing. The clean-and-wax products, also self-polishing, clean the floor as they wax it, are best for light to moderate traffic areas. Buffable types depend on buffing to bring up the shine and are sold chiefly for use with electric floor polishers. All three types should be applied for the first time over a clean, well rinsed dry floor, then can be damp mopped and when necessary, removed with a wax remover or detergent-ammonia-hot water solution.

An effective cleaning solution for removing wax from the floor is: half cup heavy duty detergent, half cup ammonia to one gallon of warm water. With the clean-and-wax type, it's necessary to remove the wax about twice a year; the others should be removed after every six to eight applications — before a build-up causes discoloration and difficulty in removal. Liquid or paste polishing waxes, solvent-based, can be used on any resilient floor except those of asphalt tile (and sometimes rubber tile), which they will soften and pit.

These products require polishing, take more time to apply and are therefore rarely used on resilient floors today. Permanent coatings are not recommended for the following reasons:

Urethane and epoxy coatings form a hard film and look good for a while, but most tend to discolor and cannot be removed satisfactorily.

Lacquers produce only moderately durable films. Shellacs impart a yellow color when applied, become yellower with age. Varnish, though fairly durable, will eventually crack and flake off, will be difficult to remove. Some varnishes could harm asphalt or rubber tile floors. Permanent floor sealers designed for terrazzo, slate and marble tend to flake off when used on resilient floors.

There's no need to GUESS about resilient floor care products. — Choose the temporary coatings and waxes".

"Forests And Watersheds"

Forests and streams always seem to go together, or at least they should.

There is probably no large river in the world which does not have its source in wooded hills or mountains — even those which flow across open plains.

Undoubtedly forests have some effect on the total quantity of water flowing down a stream, but by far their most important function is to control the rate of flow and the clarity of the water. The tree roots keep the soil porous and provide channels through which the rain and melting snow can soak into the ground instead of rushing over the surface. Rotting leaves and wood on the forest floor have a great capacity to absorb water and release it gradually.

The shady forest retards the melting snow, and, by keeping the air temperature low, reduces evaporation of moisture from the soil. Above all, the forest canopy protects the soil mantle from the direct force of the elements — beating of the rain, the baking of the sun, and the drying of the winds — and the soil is thus kept in the best condition to receive the moisture which falls as snow or rain. Water seeping through the soil does not pick up silt. It is only when water rushes over the surface that it carries away soil with it.

Engineers have used or proposed all sorts of schemes to reduce the damage from floods, but their efforts cannot be fully effective until nature's own methods are restored and safeguarded. The forests are as necessary to a healthy river as cover crops to healthy farmland — and for similar reasons.
